

While I Read...

I stop and try to whisper in my head what I just read.

I think about the predictions I made and ask myself if I was correct.

I make new predictions if my old predictions seem wrong.

I try to picture what I am reading in my head. I read things again that didn't make sense.

I circle or write down words I don't know.

I stop and try to answer the questions I made from the section headings.

I read all the captions and look at the pictures, tables, and graphs.

The strategies that help me the most are:
